

I am writing to you regarding MB Docket No. 04-233. It is my understanding that LPFM stations may take priority over FM translators. I am very disappointed to hear this as my favorite station is an FM station heard on FM translators. K-LOVE is listener supported and commercial free. I know that "christian" music is typically not listened to by the masses. However, don't think of K-LOVE just as "christian" music. Think of it more as "Family Focused" broadcasting. These days there are so many negative influences on the youth of america. Anyone can tune into K-LOVE and hear music that is postivie and safe for all members of the family to listen to. I think the most impressive memory I have of the station is right after the 9/11 attacks in 2001. Of course K-LOVE covered the story, just as every other news media in america. The difference was they announced they were going to talk about things that might be disturbing to very young children and paused for a moment so parents could turn down the volume. I know this must seem like something small, but if you have very young children, it is not. K-LOVE also has a lot of community benefit. They frequently host non-profit organizations and assist in their fund raising efforts. They provide a free source of advertising for community benefit items. I hope that you will take this and other comments into consideration before making this proposed rule change. I would be very disappointed at the possibility of loosing a wonderful station.
